New Works Planned For Fifth Season Of Earplay Concerts

Earplay, a cooperative organization of composers and performers, will open its fifth season of four concerts October 10 at Cowell Theater with world premieres of Ursula Mamlock's Rhapsody and Allen Shearer's "We Three," chamber works commissioned by Earplay.

In addition, solo and ensemble works of John Felder, Thea Musgrave, Victor Ialeggio and Jerome Kitzke are scheduled. Featured performers are flutist Janet Kutulas, pianist Karen Rosenak and conductor Richard Festinger.

Other concerts have been scheduled for December 12, March 13 and May 8, with each concert offering at least one new commissioned work. These composers include John Thow and Mark Winges in December, Richard Festinger and Andrew Frank in March, and Tamar Diesendruck in May.
